HANS SCHWARTZ FILES SUIT FOR A DIVORCE.

Saloonkeeper-Editor Alleges That His Wife Refuses to Cross the Ocean to Live With Him.

Hans Schwartz, who for the last ten years has been in the public eye of Belie-ville in various ways, yesterday through his attorneys, Barthel & Farmer, brought suit in the Circuit Court at Belleville for divorce from Margaretha Schwartz of Kemtken Algau, Germany. Desertion is the ground for the divorce petition. Schwartz is now in Kemtken Algau, and in a letter which was received by his attorneys yesterday morning he stated that he had made one final effort to induce his wife to cross the Atlantic with him. Fail-ing, he desired a separation.

He was adopted into the Comanche Tribe and lived with them for several years. He was a scout for General Fremont, and dispatch carrier for General Taylor. His adadventures and exploits were published in book form at Independence, Mo., a number of years and ing, he desired a separation.

Schwartz is a saloonkeeper and is also the editor of the Belleviller Tageblatt, a labor paper. He has been the editor of several papers and also the proprietor of several saloons in Belleville.

In 1882 he decided to come to the United States. According to his divorce petition his wife refused to accompany him. He came to Belleville, where he has since lived. He asserts that he has written many letters imploring his wife to cross the ocean and live with him, but the letters, he asserts, might just as well have not been written. Schwartz has saved money and recently he decided to go back to Germany and visit the places of his youth. He also decided to make one last effort to induce his wife to accompany him back to Belleville, In his letter to his attorneys he asserts that she absolutely and finally refused to come back with him and that he therefore wants a legal separation. Burroughs yesterday issued an injunction restraining the American Bottom Oil Company or Ferdinand Keller from using or disposing of the machinery in the plant at Peters with which prospecting for oil has been carried forward for a year and a half. The injunction grew out of a struggle among the members of the concern which almost terminated in a pitched battle in the main office. The complainants allege that Ferdinand Keller, upon whose farm the prospecting has been goling on, owns a half interest and that he has turned the property over to
